For the study, GAO estimated military personnel costs for attending the U.S. Military Academy and at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland, between 2011 and 2015, from which it estimated costs to operate the academies. After taking into account the cost of enlistments for the academies and a student's tuition, estimated annual costs of tuition and fees, expenses for room and board at Annapolis and at the Navy's Annapolis-based Academy of the Diplomat, and costs of academic assistance for military conscripts who had taken courses, GAO estimated the cost of providing free tuition to military enlisted during the study period at about $7 million for both academies.. "The estimated costs associated with providing free tuition are an important public policy measure designed only to deter students to the military from enlisting in the military and their parents from participating in the government's welfare programs and to encourage students to stay in school. This report should remind members of Congress that there is a much better and more efficient way to pay for a higher education for members of our Armed Forces that helps them to prepare for..
